

New Hire Onboarding Guide

Document owner: People Operations Version 3.1, effective 2026-02-01 Applies to: all new TechLance Solutions employees and their managers

This guide defines what a new hire is expected to accomplish in their first 90 days, and what their manager is accountable for providing.

Before day one

People Operations sends a welcome packet to the new hire's personal email at least five business days before the start date. It contains the start time, reporting location or video link, and the equipment delivery tracking number.

Managers must complete three things before the start date: 1. Submit the systems access request (see Information Security and Acceptable Use Policy). 2. Assign an onboarding buddy from the same department who is not the new hire's manager. 3. Place the first two weeks of recurring meetings on the new hire's calendar.

Day one

- Complete employment paperwork and identity verification with People Operations.
- Collect or activate equipment. Set up multi-factor authentication before any system access.
- Meet the manager for a 60 minute role and expectations conversation.
- Meet the onboarding buddy.

No production system access is granted on day one. Access follows security onboarding, which occurs on day two or three.

Week one

- Complete required compliance training: security awareness, code of conduct, data handling. All three must be completed within the first 10 business days.
- Enroll in benefits. New hires have a 30 day enrollment window from the start date. See the Benefits Enrollment Policy.
- Read the Employee Handbook Overview and the policies relevant to the role.
- Attend the weekly department standup as an observer.

The 30 / 60 / 90 day framework

Every new hire has a written 30/60/90 day plan. The manager drafts it before the start date and reviews it with the new hire during week one. The plan is a living document and is expected to change as the hire progresses.

First 30 days: Learn

The goal is context, not output. A new hire is not expected to deliver independent work in the first 30 days.

Expected by day 30: - Can describe what their department does and how it contributes to client outcomes. - Has met every direct teammate and the stakeholders they will work with regularly. - Has completed all required compliance training. - Has completed at least one small, scoped, reversible task end to end with support. - Has enrolled in benefits or explicitly declined coverage.

Manager accountability: at least two 1:1s per week during this window, and a written 30 day check-in summarizing what is going well and what needs attention.

Days 31 to 60: Contribute

The goal is supported delivery. The hire produces real work with review.

Expected by day 60: - Delivers assigned work at the expected quality level with normal review, not remedial review. - Raises blockers without being prompted. - Understands the team's tools, workflows, and definition of done. - Has begun contributing in team discussions rather than only receiving information.

Manager accountability: weekly 1:1s, and a written 60 day check-in that states plainly whether the hire is on track, ahead, or behind, with specific examples.

Days 61 to 90: Operate

The goal is independence within scope.

Expected by day 90: - Owns a defined area of responsibility. - Delivers work independently, escalating by judgment rather than by default. - Has identified at least one improvement to a team process or system. - Has a development plan for the following two quarters, per the Performance Review and Career Progression Policy.

Manager accountability: a written 90 day review that concludes the initial review period with an explicit determination: successful completion, extension, or separation. This review is required. It cannot be skipped or deferred.

Adjusting the plan

Plans are expected to change. Common reasons include a shift in team priorities, a delayed system access, or a hire progressing faster than anticipated. Any change to a 30/60/90 plan requires: - The manager and the new hire both reviewing the change. - A note in the plan recording what changed and why.

A 30/60/90 plan is never revised without the employee seeing the revision. Silent changes to someone's stated expectations are not permitted.

If onboarding is not going well

Managers who believe a hire is behind at the 30 or 60 day mark must raise it in writing at that check-in rather than waiting for the 90 day review. A hire cannot receive their first indication of a problem at day 90.

New hires who feel they lack the context, access, or support to meet their plan should raise it with their manager, and with People Operations if it is not resolved.
